sexual wellness

our Passionate mission

PASH has a single-minded mission: To help every Australian woman live a happier, more fulfilled life by supporting her sexual wellness needs, at whatever stage of life she's at.

Your sexual wellness journey

No matter what people say, there are no 'normal' responses – desire, interest and sexual activity vary greatly, even in one woman over the period of her life. Factors such as having children, work, money, family, age, hormone levels and ill-health can affect the sexual wellness of every woman at various times. Learning to cope and adapt to change is vital to maintaining a healthy libido, your relationship with a partner and, importantly, yourself.

Unfortunately, there many bumps along life's road that may adversely affect a woman's sexual wellness. One of our roles is to provide a place that women can go for support in navigating through the various options available. This information can be found at www.pashaaustralia.com.au in the 'Sexual Wellness' section.

PASH also provides practical solutions that women can try. There's no one solution that will work for every woman, but understanding the options available can help.

We've identified the following life-stages as a key area of focus:

Post Baby

Menopause

Illness

Mature Age

THE PASH PROMISE

At PASH we pride ourselves on delivering quality products and superior customer service, which is supported by the PASH Promise. Your satisfaction is important to us. Please choose carefully as due to the personal nature of our products we are unable to accept returns on products if you change your mind; we will only replace items which are found to be faulty or a different size is required. Returned products must be unused, unworn, in original packaging and in original, saleable condition, unless the product is faulty.

If your product is found to be faulty, we offer a 14 day replacement guarantee from the date your order is received. Any faulty product will be replaced with an identical working product.

YOUR ORDER

PASH aims to send all orders out as quickly as possible after they have been submitted to PASH. However, there may be occasions when an order is sent out before all of the items are in stock. Any items that are on back order are sent directly to the customer who has ordered it, regardless of the delivery address, so it is important that all details are given to your consultant including contact number, address and email. If items are no longer available or are sold out, an alternative will be offered and sent out.
